HUGHES STUDYING PEACE SITUATION WITH GERMANY

FAVORS VERSAILLES TREATY WITH LEAGUE ELIMINATED
AND RESERVATIONS

OTHER ALTERNATIVE IS SEPARATE TREATY WITH GERMANY AND AUSTRIA

(By United Press)

Washington, June 17—With congress moving slowly toward a declaratory state of peace, Secretary Hughes was understood to be studying the question of a treaty with Germany. Hughes is said to be considering the problem of a treaty with Germany on the basis that one of the following two courses must be taken if congress accepts a state of peace:

1—The United States must accept the treaty of Versailles with the covenant of the league of nations stricken out and modification of the reservations necessary to meet objection of the administration to the treaty as it stands, or

2—This country must negotiate a separate peace treaty with Germany.

Secretary Hughes is known to favor the first course and is believed now to be studying the reservations and modification which he thinks necessary to allow American acceptance of the Versailles treaty. After he has decided on how it shall be edited to meet American approval, the secretary is expected to send the Versailles pact with these changes to President Harding with recommendations that the treaty be re-submitted to the senate for ratification.

CORK LORD MAYOR ARRIVES OVERSEAS

AFTER SOJOURN IN THIS COUNTRY—ORDERED TO LEAVE
U. S. SOIL

(United Press)

Chicago, June 17—Samuel O'Callaghan, British phantom rebel, arrived overseas today. O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who fled to the United States and had been refused political asylum, returned to Ireland via "the underground route" of the Irish. The announcement of the arrival of the leader of the Irish republican movement was made exclusively to the United Press at the headquarters of the Irish mission here.

O'Callaghan arrived in the United States several months ago as a stow-away. The order that he leave the country was issued after a fight by Irish sympathizers to allow him to stay. During his stay here the 29-year-old rebel leader stumped the country for the American Association for the recognition of the Irish republic.

Close advisors today said O'Callaghan left the United States with the realization that he was a doomed man. He left in spite of the protest of many close friends that pointed out he could hide in the United States for months.

BEAUVAIS NOTIFIED BY WIRE WHEN GUY STILLMAN WAS BORN

NURSE TESTIFIES TO SENDING TELEGRAM FOR MRS.
STILLMAN

(By United Press)

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 17—A telegram was sent by Mrs. Stillman to Fred Beauvais the day Guy Stillman was born, reading:

"Black bear arrived." This testimony was introduced in the Stillman case today by Miss Margaret Olive Gilligan, a nurse, who said she wrote the telegram on the request of Mrs. Stillman.

Guy, who was born in New York on November 7, 1918, is alleged to be the son of Mrs. Stillman and Beauvais, a French-Canadian guide.

Stillman's counsel planned, it was learned, to introduce testimony to show that his children, Anne and Budd, co-operated in the plan to notify Beauvais of Guy's birth. In this connection it was said code words were agreed upon to tell Beauvais of the child's sex. "Black bear" was to mean a boy.

Miss Gilligan was the "surprise" witness introduced by Stillman's counsel today.

The note emphasized the statement that it is essential for the allies to reach a full understanding with the United States in order that the council may discharge its responsibility in approving the mandates.

The league will not attempt to exercise its mandate function until a request has been met, DeCuna declared.

Rotarians Declare For Universal Peace

(United Press)

Edinburgh, Scotland, June 17—Universal peace has been promoted by the international Rotary convention here, according to American delegates preparing to leave Edinburgh today.

All delegates were pledged to have their clubs memorialize their governments for calling an international disarmament conference.

The closing speeches of the convention dwelt on claims that the convention has advanced the cause of peace by giving a "practical demonstration of the strength of friendliness."

The most spectacular feature of the convention was the great parade yesterday in which more than one thousand Rotarians marched down ancient Scottish streets under forests of American and British flags. There were princes, princesses, mythological characters and symbolical floats. Robert Cameron, of Billings, Mont., treated wide-eyed Scotch children to a sight of the real cowboy complete to the last spangle and notches on a revolver.

PHONE COMPANIES WOULD RAISE RATES

ASK FOR INJUNCTION TO PREVENT R. R. COMMISSION FROM INTERFERING WITH RAISE

(By United Press)

St. Paul, June 17—Hearing on a motion for a temporary injunction to restrain the railroad and warehouse commission from interfering in raising the telephone rates was begun in United States district court here today.

On February 9 the railroad and warehouse commission refused to permit the Tri-State and Northwestern companies to raise rates.

A suit to determine whether or not a raise in rates should be permitted and a temporary restraining order ordering the commission not to interfere, was issued by Judge Booth pending hearing of a motion for a temporary injunction before the three judges.

MATERIALISTIC WAVE SWEEPING THE COUNTRY

SAYS SECRETARY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF EDUCATION

(United Press)

New York, June 15—"A wave of materialism sweeping the country is stifling religious fervor and threatening the church," Edgar T. Hill, secretary of the Presbyterian board of education, told the United Press today.

"The first result has been the alarming shortage of ministers and students for the ministry. Theological seminaries are only half filled. Hundreds of pulpits are vacant. Churchmen are faced with five thousand existing vacancies with only fifteen hundred seminary graduates.

"It is the new spirit of materialism," Hill said. "Young persons are attracted to gainful pursuits rather than the ministry and schools of all denominations have suffered alike."

"It is in the home that this new spirit has gained root. Mothers are largely to blame for not raising their children nearer to God."

Plan Proposed to Adjust Differences on Peace Resolutions

(United Press)

Washington, June 17—In seeking a graceful way out of the threatened deadlock over the peace resolutions senate leaders have hit upon the plan of accepting the house provision declaring the war at an end and existence of a state of peace in place of the senate repeal of the war declaration. This acceptance is conditioned however, upon acceptance by the house of the senate reservations of American rights in alien property.

This is the plan now being "tentatively" considered, according to leaders.

(United Press)

New York, June 17—Babe Ruth has met his match—but it ain't human.

Priest Dies at 102

(By United Press)

Winnipeg, Man., June 17—Father Demasse Dandurand, said to be the oldest Catholic priest in the world, is dead at St. Boniface, a suburb of Winnipeg. He was 102 years old.

Father Dandurand was born at La Prairie, Quebec, in 1819. The record of his birth is still in the parish archives. He was appointed to Ottawa in 1844 when the present capital of Canada was known as Bytown and labored there thirty years. He came to St. Boniface in 1875. Winnipeg, across Red River, was a group of cabins under the walls of Fort Garry. The young priest saw the buffalo vanish and the settlers come. He saw wigwag villages give place to towns and cities and the prairie wilderness change into prosperous farms. On his 100th birthday two years ago, he celebrated high mass in St. Boniface cathedral. He was present a little later at the reception to the Prince of Wales in Winnipeg.

Supreme Court Upholds $23,500 Verdict For Alienation of Affection

The state supreme court upheld the verdict of the Stevens county court and Devenney, a wealthy real estate dealer of Morris, Minn., must pay.

That amount was decided upon by a jury after two previous trials.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullen had been married 19 years when Devenney came to Morris with his wife.

Mrs. Mullen divorced her husband the following year. She was then 38 and he was 41. The divorce was granted in Ramsey county court on charges of cruelty and inhuman treatment.

Mr. Mullen sued Devenney for $100,000 charging he interfered with a reconciliation about to have been effected.

PLAN IS DRAFTED FOR ASSOCIATION OF ALL NATIONS

AS ADVOCATED BY PRESIDENT
HARDING DURING THE CAMPAIGN

Washington, June 17—A plan for an association of nations has been drafted at the request of President Harding, it was learned today.

The draft now complete, covers several typewritten pages, and is said to be a world tribunal as President Harding advocated it in his campaign speech.

This was the answer from administration quarters today to the letter of Hamilton Holt, asking President Harding specifically what he is doing toward creating the association of nations advocated during the presidential campaign. The plan is reported to ignore entirely the Versailles treaty and the league of nations.

President Harding, it was said, ordered drafting of a plan shortly after his election in November. A man well versed in international law who has the complete confidence of the president, was asked to undertake the task. The draft was completed some weeks ago, it is said.

Administration friends explained that there will be no haste in attempting to put the scheme into effect.

WANTED-A GUIDE

By ADA MAY STEVENS.

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

It was partly the fault of the dog. He is much too impartial, as collies are apt to be. He spent his time indiscriminately among his admiring neighbors. Three of them had houses just like his master's. How should he know which was which, since all gave forth bones? Were I a dog—but you shall see. For a fellow just recovering from an attack of nerves, to meet things as unstable as this dog and the furniture of Maple street, is demoralizing, that's what it is.

I chose my cousin's from the list of possible visiting places, because it was quiet. Even the town is quiet. Of the house one had reason to expect a special stability. Alfred explains at length that I have not been betrayed, but judge for yourself.

My cousin met me upon my arrival, for it happened that I had never visited him since he moved to Westgate. We stopped before a piazza in duplicate, passing through a duplicate door into what afterward I found to be a duplicate hall. Except in furnishings, in Alfred's hall was only a table and a chair. It was restfully vacant; from its plain walls, scant furnishings, to the cheerful little wife and pleasant home atmosphere, I felt at last I had found peace. I rested well that night.

With the interest of a stranger in town, I went out next day, proud to take my first trip alone. I felt duly, or unduly, elated. Returning, I ran confidently up the steps where sat Billy, the cat; I opened the hall door to be greeted by Major, the dog. But the hall looked unfamiliar; there was a tall clock in the corner, and a formidable backrest almost challenging the way. Like a soldier—or is it a burglar?—suddenly sensing danger, I came to tiptoe position; I craned toward the door into the sitting room.

"Did you want to see Alfred Poser? He lives next door." The voice was sweet, and the head that followed it was pretty, but I left as precipitately as though followed by a bristling warrior with all swords drawn. There is little satisfaction in apologizing for a frankly bone-headed intrusion, even to a pretty face, so I left at once, with my apology trailing over my shoulder.

Alfred's wife has a pleasant laugh, and the mirth of cousin's is more healing than that of brother's, so I picked up courage once more, took back my rash vow that I would never appear in public again without a keeper, and went down street on the following afternoon.

I went early and returned late. This time I left nothing to chance; I counted my steps from the corner to the house. I looked first at the numbers and then at the draperies and house plants in the windows. I carefully avoided all piazzas where reposed any of our household pets. Then I boldly walked in.

Heavens! What had I done? Not an article was familiar. By the stairs stood a broad old-fashioned couch; a black walnut wardrobe, and a crockery umbrella rack grinned from separate corners. The accustomed chair where I usually draped my coat was gone. Standing bewildered, I clutched my falling senses and uttered the thoughts within me:

"Have I gone mad again—where am I? Where am I?" I cried, in the loud voice ordinarily used for such crises as calls for "Help" or "Fire."

As though it were a signal, the lights went up. A cool voice came down the hall, "Why, Cousin Tom, is that you?" Then she went into spasms of laughter. Yes, Alfred's wife is a cheerful soul, but I never before realized what a useless thing her laugh could be. Between shrieks she gasped:

"No wonder you don't know where you are! Oh, Tom, you look too funny for words—do forgive me—"

"Explain yourself," I intoned, with much dignity, realizing that only so could I bring her to herself.

"Why, you see," she laughed, "the things came from Alfred's father's house while you were gone, and we put them around at once. Isn't that a love of a couch? Truly, you don't have to look so wild—but, after yesterday—" She was hopeless and helpless. I left her.

It's all very well to soothe my feelings and explain things to me; anyone in my condition can tell you just how soothing it is. I utterly refuse to go abroad alone again in this town. Meanwhile I find the piazza just the right length for pacing, and I spend my time teaching Major and Billy the delights of home. In a place like this, some guide is necessary.

Hallowe'en of Pagan Origin.

Hallowe'en, or All Hallow's eve, is clearly a relic of pagan times, for there is nothing in the church observance of the ensuing day of All Saints to have originated such extraordinary notions as are connected with this celebrated festival, or such remarkable practices as those by which it is distinguished. In Roman Catholic countries Hallowe'en is the occasion for visiting the cemeteries and laying flowers on the graves of friends and relatives, but in parts of Scotland and elsewhere the night is devoted to merry-making and divination of the future.

"PRICE OF PEACE"

Five Reel Picture to be Shown at the Peoples Congregational Church This Evening

There will be a five reel picture story in the Peoples Congregational church, this evening at 8 o'clock. The "Price of Peace" in five reels, which is one of the most instructive picture stories furnished by the Department of Education, of the State University. This picture gives you an opportunity of reading in an entertaining way the story which would be dry and uninteresting in history. If you are interested in peace and what it costs you cannot afford to miss this.

Tonight at 8 o'clock at Peoples Congregational church. Educational movies that educate, come and be convinced.

Testing Glassware.

To toughen lamp chimneys and glassware immerse the article in a pot filled with cold water, to which some common salt has been added. Boil the water well and then cool slowly. Glass treated in this way will be more apt to resist any sudden change of temperature.

Paint Also Helps.

Most people go to the expense of having cellar walls whitewashed every year or so, but few people feel that it is necessary to have any paint used in the cellar. However, it is a good idea to have cellar stairs treated to a coat or so of good floor paint. It prolongs their life and makes them easier to clean later.

AVERY WILL FIGHT INDIAN GAME BILL

Plan to Let Natives Fish and Hunt Year Around Hits Law Enforcement Mark, He Said

GIVES REASONS IN THE MATTER

While Hunter Might Take Indian Along to Hunt and then Claim Indian Had Shot Game

The game preservation work and law enforcement system which has been built up in Minnesota by years of effort is threatened by a bill which had been placed before congress by Representative Harold Knutson, according to Carlos Avery, game and fish commissioner for Minnesota.

Mr. Avery will oppose the measure, which would restore to Indians the rights to hunt and fish on reservations. The passage of such a law, according to Mr. Avery, would permit the Indians to hunt and fish regardless of season and regardless of limits which have been established. Meanwhile the white sportsmen could only regret for the moment the color of his skin.

The Red Lake reservation, according to Mr. Avery, is the only one which has not been broken up for settlement and the Indians still have their treaty rights there. On the White Earth, Leech Lake and other reservations the Indians are under the same laws as the white residents and have been willing to obey them.

2T5 d7 -OB kftmPS fpgB [S zy
If congress were to give the Indians special favors in this respect, Mr. Avery said, it would mean that game birds would be hunted throughout the year and that probably they would be exterminated soon. It also would give the white residents the opportunity of taking an Indian along to hunt with them and then tell game wardens that Indians were killing the game, and thereby nullify law enforcement measures.

Mr. Avery plans to take the matter up with Minnesota members of congress and put forth his best efforts to defeat the measure.

HIGH MORTALITY RATES

In the United States in 1919 one mother died for every 135 babies born and every eleventh baby born died before he was a year old. That these rates are excessive is shown in "Save the Youngest" a bulletin issued by the Children's Bureau. Six countries are shown to have a lower infant mortality, and 16 in a group of 17, a lower maternal mortality, than the United States. Not only do we lose more mothers in proportion to births than practically any other civilized country, but we apparently lose more on an average each year than the year before. Whereas in other countries there has been a decrease in the death rate from childbirth, the rate in the United States rose from 6.1 per 1,000 births in 1915 to 6.2 in 1916, 6.6 in 1917 and 7.4 in 1919. Moreover, in this country there is no appreciable decrease in the proportion of babies who die from causes largely connected with their care and the condition of the mother.

Experience has proved, the bulletin points out, that thousands of deaths of both mothers and babies could be prevented every year by public measure for the protection of maternity and infancy. Measures which have proved successful in preventing this waste of life among mothers and babies include the following: Prompt and accurate birth registration, health centers, public health nurses, special clinics, trained attendance at childbirth, adequate hospital service, education of the mother in maternity and child hygiene, and education for the general public in the significance of and necessity for maternal and infant health.

CONFECTIONERY AND ICE CREAM

A statement of the general results of the 1920 census of manufacturers furnishing statistics concerning the manufacture of confectionery and ice cream during 1919 has been issued by the Bureau of the Census. In 1919, 3,148 establishments engaged in the manufacture of confectionery reported products valued at $447,800,000, while in 1914 the value of the products reported by 2,391 establishments was $170,845,000. From 3,476 establishments engaged in the manufacture of ice cream in 1919 the value of products was $189,414,000, while in 1914 reports were received from 2437 establishments with products valued at $55,983,000.

Hindenburg Statue Is Now Firewood

(United Press)

Berlin, June 17—Germany's iron Hindenburg, which during the war was to epitomize the German spirit, has gone the way of the rest of wartime German things.

An advertisement in the Berlin papers announces the demise simply: IRON HINDENBURG:

For Sale, in whole or in parts, for firewood. Apply, Rudolf Mosse, Berlin W. 8, Leipziger St., 103.

The gigantic statue—a wooden Hindenburg—was erected during the war at the end of Berlin's Avenue of Victory.

It was to be covered with nails, driven one by one by patriotic Germans, who, for the privilege of putting a bit more iron into the field marshal, were to pay a small contribution to German war charities.

The idea flattered. Long before the war ended what was at first a popular pilgrimage had tired Berliners, and the statue remained, its woodwork, rotting in huge uncovered patches and its scattered fish of nails rusting.

About a year ago, the statue, always an eyesore, was removed. No one was sufficiently interested to ask about it. Its fate was not known until Herr Mossee inserted his ad.

MEMORIAL FOR DEAD WARRIORS

IMMENSE "VICTORY BUILDING" REALLY IS TO BE ERRECTED IN WASHINGTON CITY.

UNEXPECTED IS TO HAPPEN

Funds for the Proposed $20,000,000 Structure Already Are Being Raised and Congress Has Provided a Site on the Mall.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Does the unexpected happen in Washington oftener than it happens elsewhere in these good United States? Sometimes it so seems, but the chances are that in this city, the capital of the country, there is a greater chance than elsewhere that a merely suggested project more frequently comes into its own, because what might be called the spirit of the capital of the republic enters into the proposal for something worthy to be done.

Two years ago, just after I had returned from field service in France, Rupert Hughes, the novelist, came to me and asked me for sentiment's sake, and for the sake of the news, to write a story concerning the plan for an immense Victory building which it was proposed to erect in Washington in memory of the dead of the American armies.

I wrote the article, told of the heart interest of Mrs. Henry F. Dimock of Washington in the proposed plan, told of the great sum of money which it was proposed to raise, gave something of an outline of the architectural plans for the building itself, but wrote it believing that the plan was too ambitious ever to see accomplishment, even in this city of deeds.

Now it is announced that an immense Victory building, a memorial to the dead of all our wars, is an assured fact, and that the breaking of the ground for the $20,000,000 structure will be the work of the coming autumn.

Carrying Out Washington's Ideas.

Out of virtually baseless stories sometimes good can spring. For the better part of a century there have been intermittent tales printed with every earmark of truthfulness that George Washington left a large sum of money for the establishment of an educational institution in the capital of the republic, and that this money, having never been used, still was in the treasury of the United States, and that it now was proposed to put it to this good use or to that good use in keeping with the spirit of the educational intention of the great giver.

It is perfectly true that Washington did in his will make a provision for the establishment of some kind of an educational institution which was to be located in the capital of the country. The funds set aside were in the form of bonds of some kind or other, but either because the bonds proved to be of little or no value, or because the provision in the will was not clear enough, the small amount of money provided never was available, and never has been available.

Now in a way the great victory memorial building which is to be erected in Washington at a cost of $20,000,000 will be the result of the provision in George Washington's will for the establishment of an educational institution in the capital of the country. Mrs. Dimock, who by the way is a sister of the late William C. Whitney, secretary of the navy in Grover Cleveland's cabinet, read the Washington will and believed that an institution of the kind which is suggested would be in entire keeping with the desire of the Father of His country. Mrs. Dimock knew there was no money to be secured from the Washington source, but she thought that the spirit was as good as the cash, and so she went ahead with her work, and the word today is that success is to come.

States Supplying Money.

Word has come to Washington that one state of the Union has appropriated $100,000 in its own behalf for the project, and that other states are expected to follow suit. Committees have been formed in all states of the Union for the purpose of raising funds. There already is a considerable sum in the treasury and congress has provided a site for the memorial victory structure on the Mall at Seventh and B streets, between Pennsylvania avenue and the Potomac river.

In this huge structure, architectural plans for which are already drawn, the American Legion and all other patriotic organizations will be given quarters. It is to be a memorial to the dead of all wars, but the building will be made serviceable in a hundred different ways as the meeting place of organizations of a specifically patriotic kind. On the ground floor there will be rooms set aside for the archives or relics of the Union's great struggles. The structure will commemorate the deeds of the men and women of 1776, as it will those of the men and women of 1917. Taking it all in all, this structure, harring the capitol of the United States, will be the finest building in the city of Washington and, perhaps it is not too much to say, one of the really commanding structures of the country.

Quite a Feat.

"This 'ere government," said an English soap-box orator, "is like the hoshich rushin' blindly forward with 'a lead 'idden in the sand."

ONE COOL PLACE

New Park Theatre Tested as Cool Resort During the Summer Hot Weather

The present batch of weather, doesn't daunt the management of the New Park theatre, and the house played to full business last night in spite of the way the humid atmosphere outside dragged the perspiration from the pores of those who sat under the moon and tried to keep cool. For the coolest place was in the theatre where the forced ventilation kept the air currents moving, and the audience comfortable. Manager Workman advises those who find the weather hot in the afternoon matinee time, or during the evening, to try the New Park for a little relief.

There's a chance to try it out tonight with a real big thriller of a picture, and if you find it comfortable in this humid atmosphere, you sure have put it to test. "Dead Men Tell No Tales" is the title of the big picture tonight, a screening of the big novel by Hornung, one of the "best sellers" of a season. There is also an educational picture, showing small monkeys and their habits, as funny as looking in a monkey cage, which you can't do until the circus comes.

Manager Workman asks that you do not forget the matinees beginning next week Monday and continuing indefinitely. He promises a cool theatre. Better look in another column for the Dispatch free theatre coupon.

At the Lyceum Theatre

Corinne Griffith, playing the role of Emily Cottrell, the princess of diamonds in Vitagraph's new picture, "The Tower of Jewels," is declared to personify an actual living character who has been notorious in policy and crook circles. It is reported that the remarkable adventures enacted by the star are largely drawn from the actual happenings recorded in the life of the notorious real princess of diamonds.

"The Tower of Jewels" will be the main attraction at the Lyceum theatre tonight only.

New Park Matinees

Manager Workman of the New Park theatre, announces that he is ready to inaugurate the matinee policy of the theatre, beginning Monday next, when there will be matinee every day. Mr. Workman has decided to have the show begin at 3 o'clock, for the reason that the hour will give shoppers down town plenty of time to finish their shopping, and to see the show and get home in plenty of time for supper.

The management announces summer prices at 10 cents to every one.

"The Misfit Wife"

"The Misfit Wife," the new Metro production announced for Saturday at the Lyceum Theatre, with Alice Lake in the leading role, is an adaptation of the successful stage play, "The Outsider," by Julie Herne.

Miss Lake will be seen as Katie

There she meets Perc Crandall, of New York who has gone West to take up prohibition in a serious way, but who becomes daily more frivolous about it. Paris, Wyoming affords little else in the way of diversion.

GLENWOOD PICNIC GROUNDS

Trip Will be Made in Two Special Trains of Eight Coaches and Baggage Car Each

All is in readiness for the big annual shop picnic of Saturday, June 18.

Committees have perfected all arrangements until everything moves like clockwork. Two special trains have been secured of eight coaches and a baggage car each. They will leave Brainerd depot at 6 and 7 in the morning, and will make the trip in 3 hours, 45 minutes. At Little Falls the train will be switched to the Morris branch.

The return home will be made at 7:00 and 8:00 p. m. A day of unalloyed pleasure has been provided.

IN NEW ROLE

Motor Car Replaces Locomotive and Coach on the Central Railroad of Georgia

W. H. Wright, Superintendent of the Savannah Division of the Central railroad of Georgia, inspects the property on his division with more comfort, thoroughness and speed, and at a lower cost than most divisional superintendents in America. In former days he covered his division with a special train consisting of a locomotive and coach, which required the services of an engineer, fireman and conductor.

To attain greater flexibility in his regular inspections he had a Dodge Brothers Motor car equipped with standard gauge steel flanged wheels. This unique car is driven by Mr. Wright himself and in addition it carries the occupants it carries the varied accessories necessary to the superintendent in his work. At times the car is dispatched down the road only a few minutes ahead of important passenger trains, so confident are the officials of the motor's power and reliability. It proved so successful in several years of operation that other divisions have been similarly equipped. At present there are ten or more of the cars in operation on railroads in and around Atlanta.

RAISING $600 FOR PARK BOARD

The other day Henry Clarke took up the cudgels against having a carnival to raise money for the park board and said he would give $10 to the $600 needed by the board in lieu of having a carnival, if others would contribute the balance.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Paul will contribute their $10 if 58 other people contribute the balance.

The Dispatch suggests the best way is to make the $10 contributions and they will be published as received and when the $600 mark is reached, the amount will be turned over to the park board.

MORE GAS

Editor Dispatch:

The writer wishes that we might have gas in Brainerd as soon as possible. The advantages of gas are too obvious to need enumeration. But, he would not be considered in the "Gas at any price" class. $2.85 and 50c service charge is too high to encourage a sufficient number to use gas so as to make it a paying proposition for the investors, or a permanent institution for our city, and the latter is the final consideration.

We are somewhat at a loss to account for the figures reported of other Minnesota cities having a rate much below $2; none, even including Renville with a population of about 1,000 as high as the rate proposed for Brainerd. It is true, information concerning rates of other cities is too fragmentary to base final conclusions on, but there seems to be too great a discrepancy.

Of course, hopes are held out for a reduction on the "sliding scale", but these are too remote to be an encouragement to begin using gas. Brainerd with its unexcelled railroad facilities ought to have materials (and materials are the important factor in gas production) laid down here as cheaply if not cheaper than many other cities.

The mass meeting expressed itself as favorable to gas at a fair rate. What this rate should be must be determined by competent authorities. It is our purpose to warn against adopting the proposed rate. It is hoped that a franchise may be granted, providing for such a rate as will encourage at least 1000 consumers within a year.

FOUND GUILTY OF TAKING TIRES

John Benjamin Convicted in District Court by a Jury of Grand Larceny in the Second Degree

CROSBY CASE PRESENTED FIRST

Brainerd Charge Was Not Pressed, Benjamin Did Not Take Stand In His Own Defense

John Benjamin, charged with grand larceny in the second degree, was found guilty in district court by a jury. Two charges had been pressed against Benjamin, one originating in Crosby and one in Brainerd.

In the Crosby case, it was charged that he took tires from the Crosby Tire shop and that in leaving the place he dropped his handkerchief which carried same initials as the collars and other laundry in his suit case. Tires were positively identified by numbers. Benjamin did not go on the stand in his own behalf.

The state's case was ably presented by County Attorney S. F. Alderman, while G. S. Swanson, appointed by Judge B. F. Wright, to defend the prisoner, appeared for Benjamin.

The Brainerd case, which was not pressed, concerned the charge that Benjamin had taken tires from the garage of Herbert Peterson and peddled them to farmers in the country. Mr. Peterson oated several tires that it was charged Benjamin had sold to farmers at bargain prices. They were positively identified by numbers.

Mayor J. E. Meyers of Minneapolis Sends to Brainerd Information of Coming Tour

In a letter to the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor J. E. Meyers of Minneapolis writes:

"Charles M. Babcock, State Highway Commissioner, and myself are planning a trip over northern Minnesota via aeroplane. We aim to make a landing in your city and if you desire any group of people to meet Mr. Babcock and myself, we will be pleased to do so.

"The trip is made as a sort of survey and we will make stops at only five cities. Exact time of landing would be given later. We can only say now that we plan to be in Brainerd on June 27th."

Piloted by Ray Miller, they will leave Monday, June 27, and will fly over Brainerd, Fargo, Crookston, Detroit, Park Rapids and Fergus Falls.

Road conditions in the northern part of the state will be observed and recorded, Mayor Meyers said.

MUNICIPAL BAND HAS ENGAGEMENTS

Brainerd Elks Lodge Sets Example in Having Band at Various Festivities of Lodge

BOOSTS HOME ORGANIZATION

Band to Play at Elks Annual Picnic at Rocky Point and Later at St. Cloud State Convention

When you have a home band, patronize the organization and see that it gets engagements during the year. One of the best boosters of the Brainerd Municipal band is the Brainerd Elks lodge No. 615. They have engaged the band for the annual picnic of the order at Rocky Point resort, Gull lake, June 19 and are also planning on the band accompanying the Brainerd delegation to the state convention at St. Cloud, marching in the parade with the Brainerd Elks. The band will also be a feature at the Brainerd Fourth of July celebration, vying in giving its best music and thus competing with three circus bands.

The instrumentation of the band follows:

Cornets—Chris Elvig, T. H. Anderson, Wm. Nurmeo, John Broschinski, and William F. Palmer.

Clarinets—Roy McPherson, E. W. Paine, Charles Falleneck, Maurice Manning.

Trombones—Harry Peterson, Henry Krause, Gus Lind, Ray Ganyaw.

Saxophones—Ernest Crust, Oscar Erickson, Winfred Edling, M. H. Carlson, Frank Kaufman.

Basses—Dave Ebinger, Joe Kiebler.

Baritones—Milton Fossum, Andrew Anderson.

Alto—Howard Ebinger, Andrew Hill, Martin Anderson, Ray Fredstrom.

Drummers—Oscar Risberg, A. Johnson, Leroy Putz.

Director William F. Palmer and Business Manager Andrew Anderson expect to add to the personnel of the band.

Band Plays Tonight

The Brainerd Municipal band will play at Gregory park, the concert being the one deferred from last Wednesday. An excellent program has been prepared by Conductor William F. Palmer.

CAUGHT MANY FISH

George Crowe Fishing Club Has Glorious Day's Sport Near Walker, Minnesota

The George Crowe fishing club fished near Walker and the 64 fishermen caught over 900 pounds of pike. Dr. J. A. Thabes is president of the club. Brainerd members making the trip in three cars and lucky at landing big catches were Dr. Thabes and John A. Thabes, Jr., John Carlson, Dr. M. H. Carlson, A. J. Hayer, Ernest Butler, A. P. Drogseth, J. E. O'Brien, G. S. Swanson, T. B. Swanson, T. B. Brusegaard, Henry I. Cohen. There were two fish fires on the beach and all took home strings.

ONE BIG THRILL

Rhoda Royal Circus at Brainerd at the Fourth of July Celebration

"Rhoda Royal's circus, which exhibits in Brainerd July 4th for the benefit of the Elks is reputed to be one big thrill from the blare of the trumpets that announces that the colorful pageant, to the big Wild West concert" says show committee.

"Old Buffalo, intimate friend and companion of the late Buffalo Bill, leads the Wild West which is composed of cowboys and cowgirls from Arizona, Texas and adjoining territory. Rope spinning, trick and fancy riding and broncho busting are among the most important numbers and, if the strenuous efforts of these hardy Westerners fail to thrill you clean thru, then you are indeed immune to anything that bears the slightest relation to excitement."

They are all professionals with the Royal circus. The show comes here on its regular route but the Elks have arranged to secure a percentage of the gross receipts. Elks are selling tickets and will be at all the gates and entrances to care for the crowds. The entire circus will be turned over to the Elks for the one day in this city.

HUGHES NOW HAS MAN-SIZED JOB

Secretary's Responsibilities Second Only to President's.

MUST FACE BIG PROBLEMS

Within Province of State Department Fall Conduct of Negotiations With Foreign Governments and Protection of Every American Citizen—Functions More Numerous and Varied Than Any Other Department.

When Charles Evans Hughes became secretary of state and therewith "premier" of President Harding's cabinet, he assumed responsibilities and duties second only to those of the President, says the New York Times.

The cardinal function of the State Department, the conduct of the foreign relations of the United States, constitutes merely a part of the operations of the department. Working always at full pressure, though this is seldom apparent to the casual observer, short-handed in its personnel because of the refusal of congress to provide funds for the requisite number of higher officials and clerks, the State department has the record of quietly and smoothly meeting whatever extraordinary demands have fallen upon it in addition to the daily burden.

Within its province fall the conduct of negotiations with foreign governments, the protection of every American citizen and the safeguarding of American property and trade interests in other lands. More and more has its diplomacy been interwoven with the welfare of American business and commercial prosperity. Some of the most involved fiscal and economic problems the world has ever known are among those confronting Secretary Hughes. And the subjects of his daily anxiety include the attitude of the United States toward the League of Nations, the question of the open door and equality of opportunity in five continents, the handling of the mandate problems and the freedom of communications by cable and wireless around the world.

Aside from the major problems the department must look after a bewildering mass of miscellaneous detail. It must care for the interests of the American sailor who misses his ship in a foreign port, for the welfare of the elderly lady who has lost her letter of credit, for the extension of protection to an American bank account overtaxed by a foreign government, for the case of goods subjected to discriminatory foreign duties, for the retrieving of American property seized as spoils of war by some former belligerent in Europe.

Many and Varied Functions.

In addition the department may be called upon to offer its services as a mediator between nations, large or small, or be appealed to as a world power to pass judgment when principles of international law are concerned, particularly in cases involving infringement of neutral rights. Few realized the broad functions of the State department in the easy-going days before the World war of 1914, and since then these functions have multiplied manifold. For a time world events crowded so rapidly one upon another, that it was feared the machinery of the department would break down.

But its machinery has functioned, remodeled from time to time to suit changing conditions. And all the time it has kept up its lesser routine. It acts as custodian of the great seal of the United States, receives and holds all the original laws enacted by congress, in addition to safeguarding in its archives the original texts of the Declaration of Independence, and of the various acts of the Confederation. The State department also certifies and publishes the official texts of the laws of congress, attests and promulgates all Presidential proclamations and executive orders, takes care of the gubernatorial returns of all presidential electoral votes, certifies to congress the results of such elections, and cares for many valuable original American state papers and documents, in addition to maintaining the most extensive American library on international relations.

After-War Problems.

The duties of the State department have not become less since the armistice. The after-war problems are in some respects more difficult than were those of the period of belligerency. The conduct of America's foreign relations, under the Constitution, rests with the department.

The directing genius of the State department sits at a large flat desk in a large room on the south side of the second floor of the granite pile known as the State, War and Navy building at Washington. At every hour there are many calls upon him. He must at all times have his fingers on the strings running into the offices of his four assistants, and thence via the telegraph, cable and wireless rooms to the furthest recesses of the world.

Under the President, the secretary of state represents the sovereign power of the United States government in all its dealings with foreign governments, and foreign governments communicate with the government of the United States through its secretary of state.

While the secretary of state is the directing genius of American foreign statecraft, there are four men in the department on whom he leans heavily for counsel. These are the undersecretary and the assistant secretaries of state. Any one of them may at any time be called upon to act as secretary and gain fame as "Loomis, acting," or "Davis, acting," when the "premier" is away. These men are the immediate council or cabinet of the State department. They must know the details of American foreign affairs as thoroughly as the secretary himself. In recent years they have been men of broad vision and high caliber, "brought up" in the diplomatic service, and they are not considered as political appointees.

The Undersecretary.

Secretary Hughes has already selected his four associates. Three of them are new to the particular offices, but the faces are not unknown in the department. The undersecretary of state, Henry P. Fletcher, succeeds Norman H. Davis as "right bower" to the secretary of state. The new assistant secretary of state, Fred Morris Darling of Missouri, fills the chair until recently occupied by William Phillips of Massachusetts, while the new third assistant secretary of state, Robert Woods Bliss of New York, has taken over the duties of Van Santvoord Merie-Smith, also of New York. All three are college graduates and have won their spurs in the American diplomatic service.

The State department would be like "Hamlet" without Hamlet without its veteran and distinguished second assistant secretary, Alvey Augustus Adee. He has rounded out more than half a century in the American diplomatic service. He was appointed secretary of legation at Madrid on September 9, 1870, was transferred to the State department in 1877, and has been there ever since. He is now rounding out his thirty-fifth year as second assistant secretary. He is the department's greatest living authority in diplomatic precedents, controls all of the outgoing correspondence of the department, is the diplomatic form expert of the government, has the last peep at every important note and telegram dispatched, and through his genius and knowledge alone the American government has missed many a dangerous foreign pitfall.

Work Through Divisions.

Under the supervision of the secretary, assisted by his undersecretary and three assistant secretaries, the department handles its affairs through separate divisions in the offices of solicitor, chief clerk, foreign trade adviser, the bureaus of accounts, appointments, indexes and archives and rolls and library, the diplomatic and consular bureau, the divisions of foreign intelligence, Far Eastern affairs, Near Eastern affairs, Latin-American affairs, Western European affairs, Russian affairs, Mexican affairs, passport control and a division of foreign intelligence. Since the armistice it has been handling the work of the war trade board.

The assistant secretaries of state, besides their particular functions of supervision over certain divisions and bureaus allotted to them, have general executive duties and act as advisers to the secretary of state.

The director of the consular service, Wilbur J. Carr, has been in the State department since 1892, and no secretary has been able to dispense with his services. His right-hand man is Herbert C. Henshaw, who is chief of the consular bureau.

Daily Press Conferences.

The secretary of state maintains his contact with the press by daily conferences in the morning at 11 o'clock, and at 3:30 o'clock every afternoon.

Mr. Hughes has a man-sized job on his hands. He finds that, in addition to showing up at the department promptly at 9 o'clock in the morning, it is usually 7 in the evening or later when he is able to leave, and that it is necessary for him to take state papers to his hotel at night for closer study of the problems at hand. There will be many occasions during his term of service when he will also find it necessary to go to the department on Sundays and holidays.

DIDN'T EAT LAST EGG

It Had a Chick in It, and Wager Was Promptly Paid.

Joseph Kiss collected $25 from Joseph Koss at Edwardsville, Ill., when he ate 48 doughnuts and 23 eggs in two hours.

Koss bet Kiss that he couldn't eat four dozen doughnuts in an hour and follow it up with two dozen raw eggs in the next hour. Kiss got away with the doughnuts in fine style. The eggs took longer.

With 23 downed and three minutes to go, Kiss cracked the last shell. A tiny chicken's head appeared. Koss waived the necessity of consuming No. 24. Kiss then drank a quart of milk to show his capacity had not been seriously taxed.

He'll Get His at the Terminus.

The way of the transgressor is hard, but he seems to find plenty of detours.

Cure of Geraniums.

Geraniums should be kept moist, but should not be given too much water at a time. They need a sunny window. The plants should be kept in a fairly even temperature, and it should be borne in mind that they must have plenty of air, for they won't thrive in a "stuffy" room. Light and sun are necessary for all plants, and there is always more danger of getting too little than too much.

For Rubbing Rubbers. Old jar rubbers can be heated in a pan until they become soft and then smeared on holes in your hot-water bottle, your boots, shoes, or anything else that needs mending. The rubber patch should be smoothed down with the heated blade of a knife.

Such is Life

"Eighteen years ago I had three ribs broken, fourteen years ago my right leg; eleven years ago I nearly went over with typhoid fever and since then have awful stomach and liver trouble. Was filled with gas most all the time. I would have colic attacks so bad as to become unconscious. No medicine helped me and doctors advised an operation. One day talking with a stranger he recommended Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which helped me at once." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.
